Dear Hand County Commissioners - My name is Lyle Reimnitz. I live in the same section as Jackrabbit Family Farms hog facility in Davison Co. I read with great interest the letter you have received from Kecia Beranek (director for Hand county development). She stated she was on a tour of the barns without an advance notice was interesting, since a sign says "No Trespassing".

The barn was built in years 2012 and 2013. Pigs were brought in on year 2013, not on 2014 as Kecia Beranek stated.

I don't know if you considered leaks in manure hoses some environmental issues or fractions. There has been several reported in Davison Co. and to the state of S.D.

At the time when Davison CO. voted to allow the CAFO to be built, it would be a 12 to 13 million dollar project. Six years later, it is only valued at $5,207,730, land and buildings. (per current assessed value from Davison co. records)

Visiting a large hog facility for a couple of hours one day out of the year DOES NOT make you an expert on the situation. Those of us who live by a CAFO 24 hours a day, 7 days a week , 365 days a of the year will tell you how discussing the gas and odors are. The evenings and humidity are the worst. The gas and odor travel many miles. My wife says it by best, "We have become prisoners in our own home." You cannot leave the windows open, or even sit outside on a nice cool evening because there is no way to know when the gas will come over.

PLEASE think about the people you represent who would have to live by a CAFO. We all can't just move away like it was suggested to me and my wife.

thank you for reading and considering this letter, Lyle Reimnitz
